Research interview support: language interpreter

Two researchers based at the German Institute of Development and Sustainability (IDOS), formerly the German Development Institute, are currently inviting applications for a language interpreter in support of a two-week data collection phase in the Republic of Korea. Their visit is part of an ongoing research project on "Effectiveness, Knowledge Management and Learning" supported by the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ).

On up to ten working days (max. eight hours per day), the interpreter will assist the visiting researchers in conducting in-person (or, if necessary, online) interviews lasting approximately one hour each. The total number of interviews will be 35-40 depending on interviewee availability and other circumstantial factors. In addition, the interpreter should be able and available to complete translations of short (up to two pages) text from English to Korean or the reverse.

Most interview materials such as consent forms and questions have already been prepared in Korean. It is expected that most interviewees will speak at least some English, in which case the interpreter's primary role will be to assist in ensuring full comprehension of interview questions and facilitate the communication and clarification of follow-up questions and answers. The interpreter will also be asked to verify interview transcripts prepared by the researchers.

The location of service is an office in Seongnam, Republic of Korea. On each of the agreed-upon working days, the interpreter travels to and from this location using either public transport or their private means of transportation. No reimbursements for travel expenses or food can be offered; applicants are asked to factor related expenses into their proposed daily fee. Payment is made for full working days and no fractions thereof.

Scope of service:

- two half days (due to time difference between Korea and Germany) of preparatory online meetings (billed as one full working day)
- up to ten days interpreting and translating on site in Seongnam, ROK
- potential additional working days for digital interviews (on Zoom) in November 2022

Execution: digital (one day) / in person (up to ten days)

Schedule:

preparatory online meetings:	early/mid-October 2022
on-site interpretation / translation	24-28 October; 31 October-4 November 2022
potential additional online interviews	November 2022
